FED Chair Bernanke is due to speak at the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta 2013 Financial Markets Conference titled "Maintaining Financial Stability: Holding a Tiger by the Tail". He may discuss the advantages of low interest rate policies , as well as the recent employment report. Markets will be eyeing the speech for further insight into the FED continuation of open ended bond purchases (QE3) with the very recent negative economic news, discussion of sequestration, and housing markets. This will either be a dull reaction (1 of the last 6 cases) or give you about 15-30 ticks depending upon what he says and the way investors perceive it (4 of the last 6 cases). The latter is more likely given the intensity of the topic. Due to the release time, there will be low volume as it is only 75 min after the Asian trading session starts and markets reopen on Monday evening. It is also prone to a delayed reaction with no statistical data present as the initial part of the speech is digested with the 1st peak taking up to 6 min to develop. Take that into consideration if a dull reaction appears to be panning out and you are debating canceling the JOBB order.
