We have regrettably raised the risk rating on this report due to two unsafe reports in Sep and Nov. Most of the reports in the last several months have been mixed bags for the economy, with about 150-200K jobs added with the rate improving due to other circumstances or getting worse. About 125-150K jobs need to be created each month just to keep up with population growth. SEP was the first indecisive report we have seen in about 18 months, as the jobs #s were nearly matching while the rate improved. Then Nov had a premature large long spike before the true short move came. We have also seen 5 sec freezes as the news is released. Still, any drop in the rate has been primarily due to less people in the labor force or gains in part time labor, not sizable gains in normal hiring, so the jobs #s carry much more weight as the rate is discounted. This makes traders suspect of any positive news. The ADP report on 2/5 showed worse than expected 175K jobs created last week. There is little correlation between the BOLS report and the ADP report since the calculation metrics differ entirely. Remember the # of jobs created carries more weight here than the U-3 % of unemployed, but if the rate change is divergent to the job #s, it can cause initial lack of conviction. Expect up to 5-8 ticks of slippage, and I recommend a profit target of about 15 ticks for a conservative exit.
